

Carrick Institute for Graduate Studies

Presents

A new program of study in clinical neurology with an emphasis on clinical applications

With

Professors Frederick Carrick and Brandon Brock

Kick Off: January 27-29, 2012

Amsterdam, The Netherlands

The Carrick Institute for Graduate Studies is pleased to announce a new program of study in clinical neurology with an emphasis on clinical applications. This is a course for clinicians by clinicians.

The series will investigate current knowledge and best neurological practice approaches.

The series is unique as it involves a team teaching approach with Professors Carrick and Brock. Vibrant, informative, entertaining and applicable.

Our program will introduce updates to contemporary knowledge and promote mastery of difficult subject areas.

Above all, this program of study has been designed to train clinicians how to master the performance of diagnostic and therapeutic interventions necessary in today's health care arena.
